GOODBYE MY FRIEND

We have now come to the end of our days together.
Together we have laughed, cried, and mourned.

So many things we have done together, so many more still to still to be done.

But now as we grow older we have to go our separate ways,
which is a sad event in both of our hearts.

As we grow apart, you will grow closer in my heart,
which is where you shall forever stay,
for I will never forget you my friend.

May you always have the Grace of God with you throughout your life.

Goodbye my friend!!

CLASS PROPHECY

The day is cold and bitter and the scene we fade in on is one of a great white limousine slowly pulling up to the freshly painted curb in front of the new, modernized Arenac Eastern High School. The limo's windows are tinted and we cannot see inside. So, you must imagine our surprise when the impeccably dressed chauffer, Jerry Brown, steps out. His walk is smooth as he steps around to open the door for the limo's unknown occupant or occupants. As the door opens, out steps a suave and sophisticated male figure. He is wearing a heavy ermine coat, and his feet are clad in shoes with gem-studded heels. Covering his eyes are dark glasses, which keep us from determining the direction of his gaze. We begin to think this strange and eccentric man might be Liberachi when we see the many large rings hanging from his long, narrow fingers. But wait! Someone else is disembarking from the dark interior of the limousine. Maybe these next passengers will give us a clue as to who the dark-haired man is. We recognize one passenger immediately with her strawberry-blonde hair and long, shapely legs. Yes, it's Roberta House! And the vogue beauty standing beside her is none other than Kelly Marron with her wild mane of gold-blonde hair.

As the tall, dark man takes their arms and ushers them forward, he removes his glasses and we see that he, too, is an old classmate of ours coming to attend the ten-year reunion of the Class of 1985. It is none other than John "Hot Lips" Lee. The doe-eyed Roberta and pale-faced Kelly now come forward to give their names and that of their escort for the name tags that we are busily getting ready. We want to add their profession to their name tags to help start conversation between old classmates. But when we question the two lovely women about their occupation, they wink and walk away giggling quietly between themselves.

As this beautiful collection of eyes, hair, and legs moves to the table of hors d' oeuvres, our eyes catch sight of another group of people. It's the Class of 1985's own famous rock group, Twig and the Fuzz! Of course, we all know that Derrick "Twig" Williams' dream was to become a great rock-and-roller. The real surprise is the Fuzz — the hottest backup group around. With Stormin' Norman Witkop the singing alto on lead guitar and Jackpot Jeff Hughes who choreographs some of the latest dance crazes in the nation.

Of course, as famous as the band is, a bodyguard for its lead singer and guitarist is absolutley essential. As we all know, a bodyguard must be a trusted and able person. That's why Twig chose his long-time friend and business manager Joe Hahn to do the job. Right now that hunk of pure muscle is at Twig's side, ready to disassemble any person who poses a threat to his boss and buddies.

Even though Joe "Hulk" Hahn is quite devoted to Twig, he also manages to find time to run his own bouncer business. His top employees are Dean Schlagel, Dave Blata, Kevin Hartwick, and Tracy Young — not necessarily in that order. Dean, though puny in appearance, has quite surprising strength and is someone to avoid. Next, we have David. Yes, I admit he's short, but don't let that fool you — the man is a miniature hulk. Then there's Kevin Hartwick, who is very capable of doing his job, but as his high school nickname might tell you, he is rather slow to act. Right, Snail? Last, but not least, we have Tracy Young, the state's champion woman bouncer.

As all these classmates are busily catching up on each other's last ten years of life, we hear a great commotion in front of the school. Quickly, the group of people move toward the door to see what the problem is. No one is surprised to see Jimmy Blata standing next to his immobile Trans Am (yes, the same one he drove ten years earlier). When he vents his anger at his car by kicking the wheel, the bumper falls off, and no one can help but laugh. At this time Jim joins the group of old friends and explains to them that he ran out of gas again.

From Jim, we learn many interesting facts about the lives of some other reunionees. He informs us on the whereabouts of Missy Williamson (who still won't date him, for what she says are obvious reasons!) He tells us that Missy is now teaching tepee-building classes to young children on an Indian reservation in Oklahoma. We also learn from Jim that Craig Berry is living on that same reservation, teaching the art of underwater basket weaving to the young Indian squaws.

Ken Burgoyne, we are told, is now living in the Middle East with his 21 wives and 62 children. We derive from this, that Ken is no longer the shy, quiet boy he once was. Also in the Middle East is Debra Brown. She is the royal seamstress to Mohammed Burgoyne and his royal family. Needless to say, she is extremely busy and won't be able to attend this tenth-year reunion.

As we soak in all this fresh information about our dear high school friends, we are taken by total surprise when Deborah Forro rides in on her palimino pony. She looks quite whipped out and we soon understand why. After downing half a gallon of hard cider, she explains that she has been riding for two weeks, non-stop from Wyoming, where she owns a horse ranch, to get to the reunion on time. Suddenly, we become aware of a human, moaning as though in great pain. We look to Debbie's horse and see slung across its back the familiar form of Bill Clark. Quickly, we set him in a chair and give him a drink to soothe his parched lips and dry throat. As soon as he is able, he tells us how Debbie had found him hanging from his parachute in a cactus. After his plane crashed he was stuck there for so long before Debbie found him that the buzzards were circling overhead.

The world renown doctor, Nathan Knight, and his assistant, Lenore Shaffer, who have been standing nearby, realize that Bill is suffering great pain because of the cactus needles that are protruding from his body. Lenore, being so small, is unable to single-handedly hold Bill down while Nathan removes the thistles. Seeing Lenore is having great difficulty, Tim Cain and Bob Buckius, who have for the last five years been the superintendent and principal of Arenac Eastern High School, come to her rescue.

As Dr. Knight performs this minor but somewhat embarrassing surgery, Lenore brings up the subject of comedians. She asks if any of us have been to the Comedy Castle in Detroit where she tells us that both Doug Revord and Jenny Johnson are working. She says that on bad nights when Doug just can't get the crowd to come alive, he pays Jenny to sit in the audience and laugh at his jokes. As we can all vouch, Jenny has a laugh in a million. In fact, she sometimes rakes in more money for laughing than the professionals get for their standups.

Lenore says that while she was in Detroit the previous weekend, Doug mentioned to her that Jerry Unkel is still sitting at his deer pile in Twining waiting for that big buck to show himself again. Jerry has supposedly had the same bullet in his gun for the past ten years because he just never could get a good shot at it.

Believe it or not, the evening is still young, and the people are still pouring in. Coming up the walk, we see a number of our old classmates. First, we see Dawn Sesler and Stephanie Daniels who are two of the leading fashion designers in the world today. Together they set the styles for the modern woman of the 1990's. With them, we see their two top models, Patty Stoll and Denise Parker, whom we can see from their dress, are both highly paid.

Dribbling a basketball up the walk behind these four women, we see the famous All-Star player, Steve Wycoff, followed by his manager, Roy Corey. Steve, as always, is still very concerned with his appearance. After all, a star is expected to look good! For this reason, he hired Wendy Durfee, the new-wave hair stylist from New York, to serve him on trips away from home.

Also with Steve, is Tom Wolfgang, who manufactures a line of clothing (mostly sweat socks) with Steve's name on it. Thanks to Tom and his efficient secretary, Joan Tucker, everyone involved is making a bundle on the sales of these articles. Even Judy Kedron, who owns her own rig and hauls the socks around the country to the different distributors, is making a million from the deal.

Judy, who used to haul eggs for Tracy Marsh's egg factory and poultry farm, is much happier now that she doesn't have to worry about Mark Flathau (who is otherwise known as the "God Father of the egg industry") and his mafia men running her off the road.

Now the reunion is almost complete. Nearly everyone has attended. But what of Harvey Smith? Well, I have just been informed by Roy Southworth, a cotton farmer in the states of Virginia, that Harvey is in the hospital. He apparently got stuck in the cotton bailer that he was using, and couldn't free himself before he became part of the bail. He was rushed to the emergency room where Dr. Jennifer Slater, the country's top plastic surgeon, spent 15 hours reconstructing his toenails.

Once again, we rely upon word of mouth when Rebecca Dewald, a free-lance reporter for the Inquirer, informs us that Warren Gingerich is the newest and hottest representative for Hanes Pantyhose. She even lets information from an inside source slip that Warren wears Hanes Alive control top hose when he moonlights as a cocktail waiter in Fred Heideman's Lounge, uptown Twining, where Club 65 used to stand.

This seems to be everyone, but where is that great Neil Diamond fan, the 1985 Senior Class Advisor, Mr. Michael T. Vogl? Yes! You guessed it! He's busily working on his latest book Real Men Wear Bellbottoms. We understand that he will be here shortly. So, as we anxiously await his arrival, which will complete our reunion, we mill about talking and remembering times from years gone by when we were just a fun-loving bunch of kids waiting for our lives to begin.

SCHOOL LIFE

Like mother, like daughter.

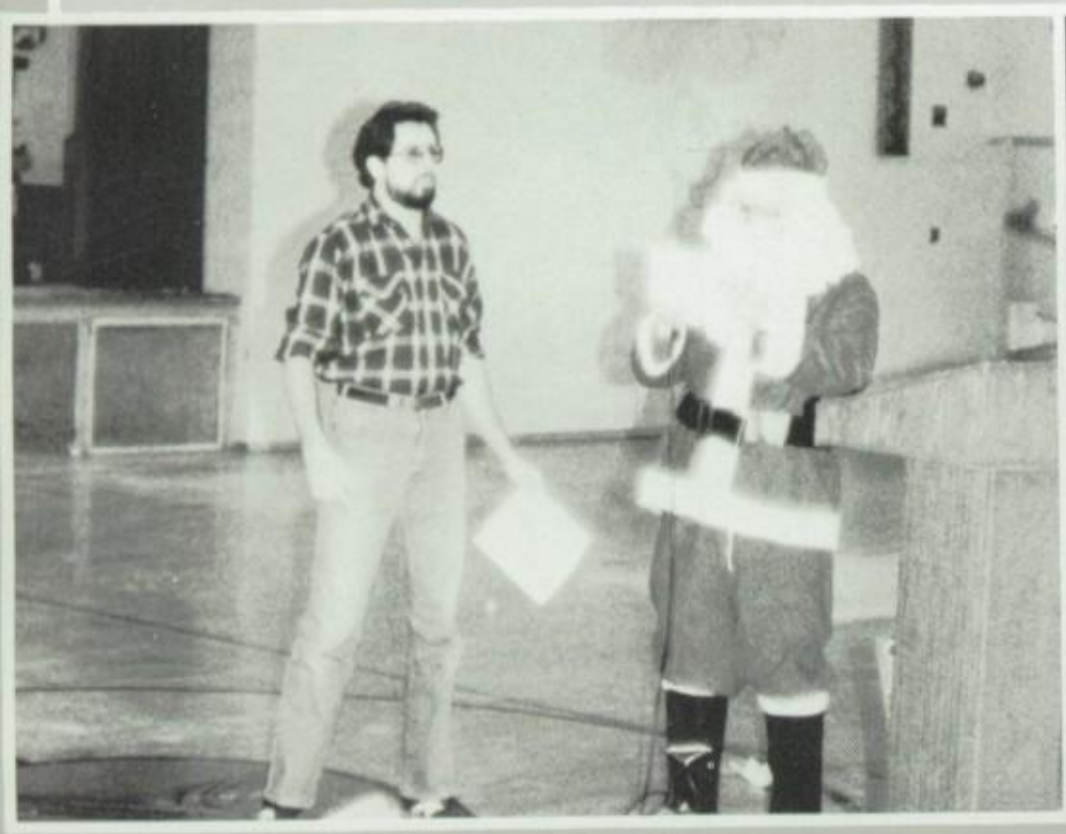
Same time, next year

The result wasn't pleasant

Holly, Zip Up!

That's not my beef! Where's my Beef?

Santa, for Christmas, I want a _____!

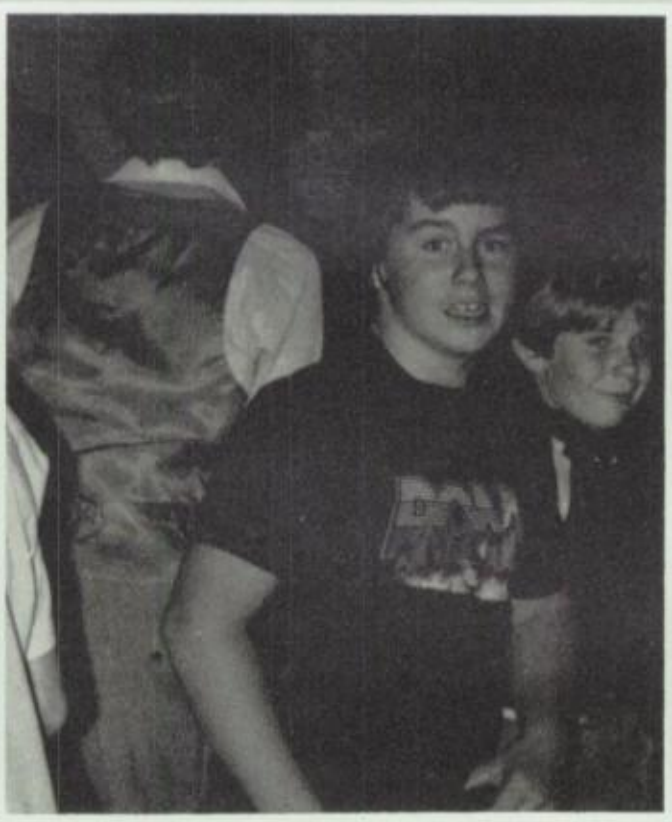


P.M. Pizzazz

We're up to something good.

Now, where's the other team!?!

The view from here is great.



Did John Travolta start this way?

You've come a long way baby.

His eyes have seen the glory.

Adoption center.

Look alikes, do alike.

This way to the ladies room, mom.

Pucker power.

One way or another we get the job done!

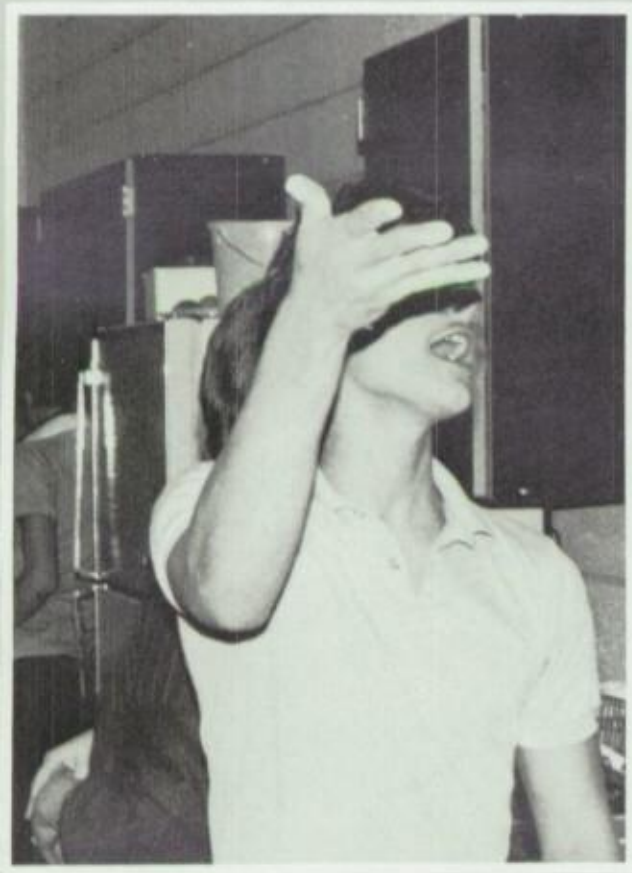
Nearly picture perfect.

Should we cheer together this time?

Whoops! Cow Patty!

Before . . .

. . . and after.



Mrs. Nester, the dough didn't come down.

I've got your number!

Swing with the king.

Let me try one more time, coach.

Ha, ha Bill, mine are pick with white lace.

Faces in a crowd?

They deserve to be remembered.

Trust me.

Little people in the big world.

Never a false move.

Lips with Zip!

All I need is a calculator, a credit card and a passport.

I wanna be a Toys-R-Us Kid.

Emptying the mad house.

Whole lot of shakin' going on.

Romance by the books.

Name that tune!

Would this body lie to you?

A man of many moves.

Football fans' survival.

It's the season for romance.

Sporty elegance!

Styles for smiles!

We bad, we bad!

Where, oh where did my mustache go?

Wanna get lucky?

Bites when cornered.

Our lovable best friends.

I love the look.

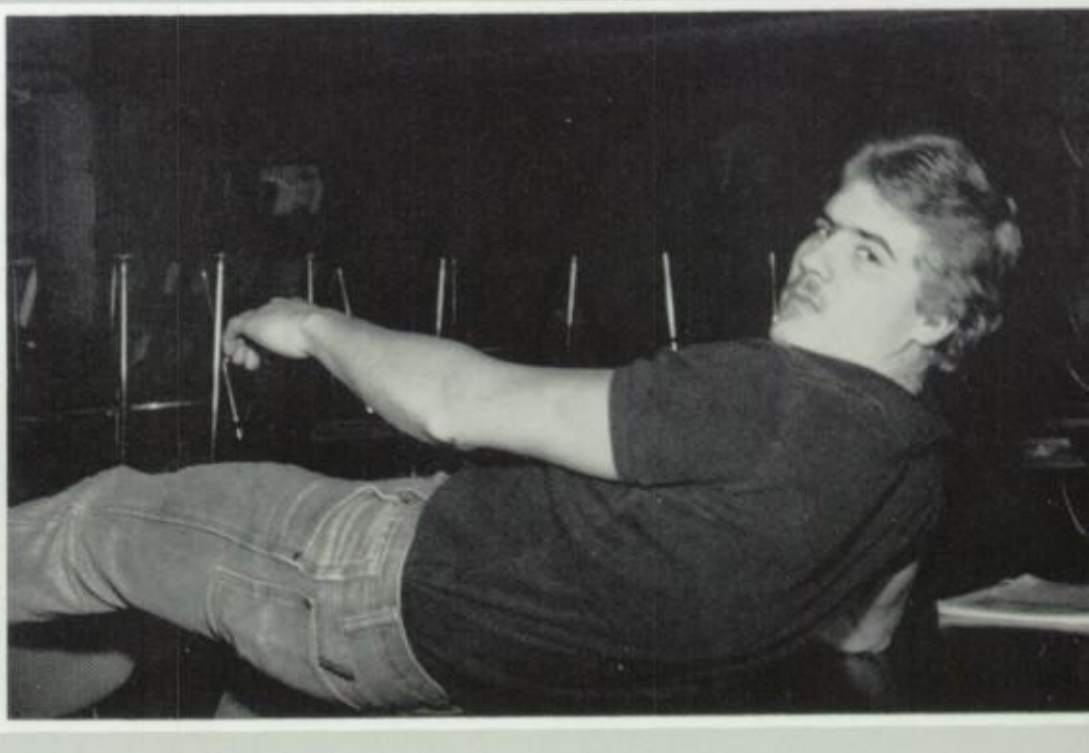
All I have in the world is him.

They found these in the werckage.

Prompt action required!

Just call me cuddles!

Let's see, how to turn it on . . .



Looks are promising!

Patience does have its rewards.

The new me!

Where did you get that information?

Outdoor attractions.

There's a reason why.

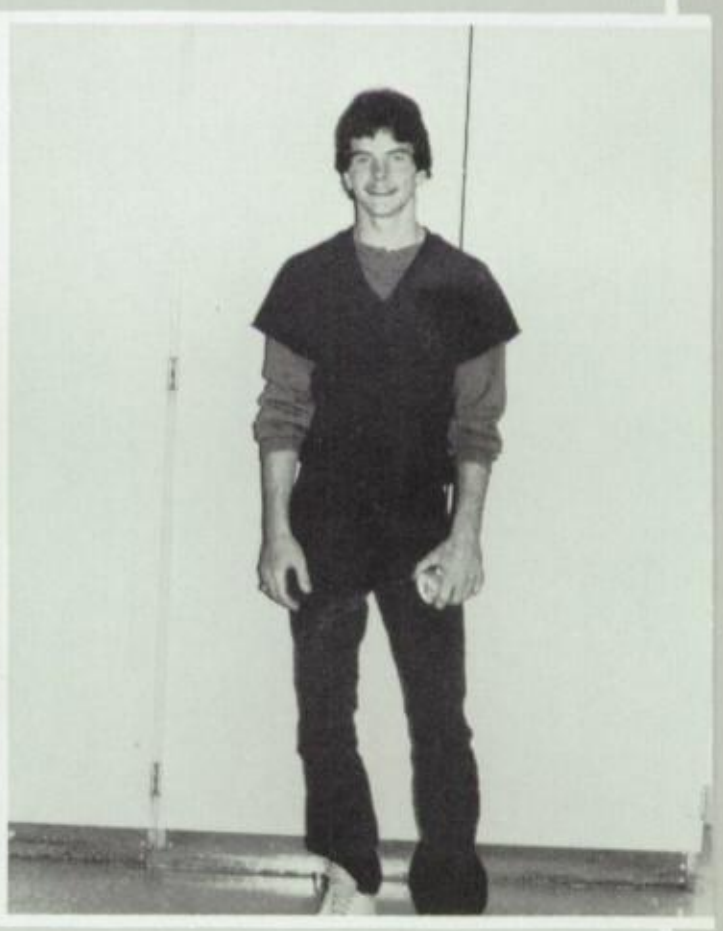
Where a man belongs.

Read the instructions?!

The face has changed but the act is the same.

Did Picasso start this way?

The pits!



Any wild ideas?

I can't say enough.

They're not kin, but they're partners!

A different view.

You can always spot a genius by her features.

Winning is such a bore.

What the good earth gives you, you get!

"Earth to girls!"

Of course you realize, we really don't believe her.
